Jumped the Track.

Monday night the north-bound passenger on the Malad Valley branch was delayed about three hours by reason of the engine and tender jumping the track at a switch just south of Corinne. The freight engine went down from Garland and brought the coaches up later in the evening. No one was injured, but the engine went down in the mud at the side of the track. The good lady at the Corinne hotel fed the multitude of side-tracked passengers in good shape, even though it was an hour after supper time.

In Justice Smith's Court.

In the case of Mrs. A. Murie vs. N. L. Brown, the plaintiff secured judgement against the defendant in March 1909, for $93.55. Plaintiff attached a certain sum of money in the hands of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. to the credit of said Brown. When the execution was issued the Sugar Co. refused to honor the same for reason that there was on file in the Company's office an order given to H. C. Vanausden, Boothe Mere. & Prod. Co. and Geo. Henrie by defendant standing against said money. The Company immediately filed with the court a motion to order said Vanausden, B. M. & P. Co. and Geo. Henrie to interplead. The case of interplection came up before Justice Burdett Smith Tuesday of this week and the following witnesses were examined: R. L. Bush, W. H. Rowe, N. L. Brown, and wife, B. F. Boothe, Charles McClure, H. C. Vanausden and T. L. Snook. The case involves the sum of about $250.00. Attorney Chas. E. Foxley appeared for plaintiff and defendant was represented by Attorney J. D. Call.

Justice Smith was given two days in which to render his decision and following is the final decree of the court:

"That the order given by Defendant N. L. Brown to Interpleader H. C. Vanausden, does not constitute a valid assignment and that the plaintiff have and receive of the money attached sufficient to satisfy the judgement held by her against the defendant."

The case of T. W. Sandall vs. Wm. Johnston, et al—a suit to foreclose a bond, came up in the afternoon Tuesday and the demur argued, overruled, and defendants given ten days to answer. Attorney Chas. Foxley represented the plaintiff and the defendants were represented by Attorney J. D. Call.
